

Copyright: Cases and Commentary on the Canadian and International Law

Author Bios

Barry B. Sookman is a partner in the Toronto office of McCarthy Tétrault and heads the firm's Internet and Electronic Commerce practice group, and prior to that he was head of the Intellectual Property group.

As one of Canada's foremost authorities, Mr. Sookman has appeared as a "most frequently recommended lawyer" in both the 2003 Guide to the Leading 500 Lawyers in Canada, and the 2003 Canadian Legal Lexpert Directory, both published by Lexpert. He also appears in the Guide to the Best-of-the-Best 2002 published by Euromoney, the international Who's Who of Business Lawyers and Who's Who of Internet Electronic-Commerce Lawyers.

Mr. Sookman has extensive experience in complex information technology transactions, service agreements and procurements, and also provides advice on protecting and exploiting intellectual property and new media products. Mr. Sookman most recently appeared as counsel on two matters before the Supreme Court of Canada in the Tariff 22 Proceeding (the Internet Copyright Tariff) and the CCH v. Law Society of Upper Canada case.

Steven Mason is a partner in McCarthy Tétrault Litigation Group in Toronto. His practice includes all areas of litigation, with a particular focus on intellectual property and related disputes. Mr. Mason is an experienced trial and appellate lawyer and has represented clients in a broad range of complex litigation in the Federal Court of Canada and in the Ontario Courts.